I haven't seen his memo to the cabinet and at this point I don't even want to. If his intention is to make it public then I am extremely disappointed in his action - especially when he'd been offered a more appropriate job assignment so he could help serve the state in a different capacity.

I have heard from a few folks regarding his email that he sent the cabinet and the feeling is that no matter the situation and the reason for him being replacement his statement to the rest about not having access and don't let it happen to you was so inappropriate, folks have taken offense to his statements.

Mike-

I talked with the Daily News tonight about Walt. Kyle was really pushing for specific reasons why Walt was let go. Apparently – Walt is telling reporters that he has all the respect for the Governor but is baffled as to why he was fired.
I stuck to the company line but Kyle wanted more. He asked me to ask you for more details. I told him I would but didn't expect to get in touch with you tonight.

I understand that. Sometimes one's ego or pride gets in the way of the higher mission, like going from Commissioner to Director and the impression that it is a demotion. In that case, it is about the person and not the mission.

As part of your administration, I say we must keep our eye on the ball and do what's best for Alaskans. I don't want this situation to affect the vote on the energy bill. I want to stay focused on the gas line and Alaska's future economy! If I can help, let me know.

I just know Kookesh will be calling me first thing Monday morning. tj

I wish he'd taken the offer to better serve the state by better utilizing his talents and connections with rural Alaska by accepting the ABC Board Ex Dir position- that way he'd be able to concentrate on bootlegging and the horrendous problems caused by alcohol in our rural communities. He's chosen not to accept that role in state service, but instead to exit state service entirely.

I read what is on the ADL webpage. I think Sharon's response so far is good. I expect to get calls come Monday from the rural caucus and stakeholders in Rural Alaska and probably big native corps like AFN, CIRI, all the BB's, Pribilofs, Interior and Northwest.

My stance is that it is not unusual for an Administration to change people out as the Governor sees appropriate to meet her goals for Alaska. Let me know if I need to say something different. tj

Subject: summary of ADNs 4 gasline pcs

The ADN ran 4 gas pipeline/energy plan compass pieces in their Sunday addition written by: Gregg Erickson, Fagan, and Halcro. The fourth was the ADN editorial. Aftre the summary I included the link for you guys.

ADN Editorial: The bottom line was With TransCanada's bid, the state has a strong card for getting what Alaska needs in the gas line game. This is no time to give that card up." Very positive piece. They write that they disagree with former Gov Knowles proposal to suspend AGIA saying it would work against the interest of Alaskans.
http://www.adn.com/opinion/story/463266.html

Erickson: He's praising the governor for her energy rebate plan. He agrees the payments represents a distribution of Alaskas resource wealth, and then goes thru some arguments from legislators: Doogan says the resources are commonly, not individually owned; Gara says we shouldnt give a divided to rich Alaskans (we could point out its optional to accept the rebate); lastly, he says some legislators dont see an end to giving out the rebate on an annual basis. He concludes with saying that Palins plan is better than any political alternative, and legislators should get over their fear of letting go of control of state resources.

Fagan: Fagan continues to write crap. This piece is about what he calls the list of all of the blunders of the administration and campaign. His list includes: Wasilla Chamber debate when the governor said shed favor Wasilla; demonizing the former Mat-Maid board and then replacing them all; a joint appearance by the governor and Tom Irwin on Fagans show when the governor said she was negotiating w producers and Tom said the state was not; the governor on the Pocarro show saying ACES creates an atmosphere of investment; the governor using the word competition to describe agia; the governor calls the denali project an 11 pg PowerPoint presentation; the governor accuse oil companies of warehousing our gas; the governor declares Pt Thompson is no longer needed to build a pipeline. He ended with saying the ultimate deception was crafting a carefully worded op-ed last week re: statehood book. He says he talked with the FL publishing company and they said they worked closely with the administration.

Im happy to work with Sharon, Frank, Tom, etc on tracking down what was actually said during these various appearances to correct his untruths point by point.

Halcro: Halcro pc is on rah rah policy making. To try and discredit the in-state plan he used a quote from Doogan from last week, "As I understand it, what's different between today and the day before there was a press conference is that there has been the announcement of a partnership that has yet to be formed, to ship gas that has yet to be discovered in what seems to be the wrong direction, in a pipeline that has yet to be built and details will follow.

Halcro chooses not to mention that Doogan went on to commend the governor for trying to find a solution to the energy crisis, and for supporting an in-state line where Akns get gas first.

He also tries to discredit the argument that the TC plan is an insurance policy that keeps the producers honest. He writes that Pat Galvin said if a future legislature adopts new tax rules or fiscal certainty to move a gas pipeline forward and Denali also moves forward it will trigger the treble damages clause and the sate would be forced to pay TC more than $100 million. Halcro calls it the Thelma and Louise insurance policy. We join hands with TC and it ensures we drive off the cliff.

After sending an advance copy to legislators, it was pointed out that including "The Corrupt Bastards Club" implied that others, including you, are corrupt. That was not intended, and we apologize. That reference has been deleted from the newspaper

I am really looking forward to working with Chuck and accomplishing some priorities. With Chuck's leadership, I think we can get more done in the area of public safety this next session than we have in the last two.

I will be in Anchorage on the 17th and would like to spend as much time as possible with him reviewing issues and personnel.

He should also meet with Commissioner Kreitzer right away as she has ideas on how to change some existing DPS policies that impede recruiting. They also need to coordinate on all the staffing studies, etc., Audie Holloway has been working on. I will talk to her about this tomorrow and see if she is also available on the 17th.

I am also working on a draft press release / announcement for Sharon to review on his hiring and will mention a few specific areas that he will be focusing on right away. I will coordinate with her and Mike Nizich today. I will cc: it to you for review. Thanks.

I hope Walt can exit gracefully. I worked with Chuck on the Police Standards Counsel, and he seems like a well spoken, proffessional guy. Once announcements are made, I'll call him and offer support and welcome him aboard. Your recent example of supporting "clean-up" and ethics within public safety is loud and clear in the public, so he should have no problem moving the right way.

thanx for the heads up, talk to you later

Governor,

Thanks for your email. I look forward to working with Chuck and supporting his efforts in any way I can. You have a good team of cabinet members and I know he will get everyone else's support as well. Helping rural Alaska transition to a new regime of higher fuel prices and tightening budgets will take all our creativity and teamwork.

At DEC, we are seeing impacts from the higher fuel prices in our Village Safe Water program. Villages are spending money on fuel that use to go to maintenance and replacement parts. A number of villages anticipate not having enough money to purchase the fuel they need this winter to heat and run the systems. In some instances, if a system freezes, it would have to be replaced. I am having our staff inventory where all of the villages we serve stand going into the winter. We will then assess what additional support we might be able to bring, with the help of others, to the villages.

I look forward to seeing you at the upcoming picnics - lets hope for a break in this weather.

Larry

Governor Hickel & Malcolm,

It is with extreme disappointment that I send this email. I am speaking about the BackBone III flyer you just sent to all 60 Alaska Legislators. And I know many other people share my indignation and disgust.

It is totally inappropriate to imply that good government doesn't allow for differing opinions. And it is totally wrong to imply that the Palin Administration isn't working around the clock to protect the State of Alaska, and every individual Alaskans' interests.

We are a state that has amazing potential, with many options available to us. To suggest that choosing a gasline option that differs from your vision is somehow corrupt is so wrong. And it ignores the reality - which is that we can do both projects! The AGIA project will allow an LNG option to proceed if there is market interest in doing so. Nothing in AGIA limits the LNG interests.

It is beyond imagination and good taste that you have chosen to use individuals names as supporting your position without first getting their permission, or who are regretfully not alive to have participated in the AGIA discussion.

Most of all, I am totally and irrevocably disgusted in the insinuation that Marty Rutherford or the Gasline Team has anything but the highest standards in achieving what this state needs, which is a fair, open and transparent process. In fact you have previously commended them for looking out for Alaska's interests. Now I can only that your definition of looking out for Alaska's interests only means doing what you think is best.

Finally, I believe a public apology to Marty Rutherford and the Gasline Team is appropriate. They are the best people we could have representing this state.

This a sad day,

Tom Irwin

Subject: summary of ADNs 4 gasline pcs
The ADN ran 4 gas pipeline/energy plan compass pieces in their Sunday addition written by: Gregg Erickson, Fagan, and Halcro. The fourth was the ADN editorial. Aftre the summary I included the link for you guys.

ADN Editorial: The bottom line was With TransCanada's bid, the state has a strong card for getting what Alaska needs in the gas line game. This is no time to give that card up." Very positive piece. They write that they disagree with former Gov Knowles proposal to suspend AGIA saying it would work against the interest of Alaskans. http://www.adn.com/opinion/story/463266.html

Erickson: He's praising the governor for her energy rebate plan. He agrees the payments represents a distribution of Alaskas resource wealth, and then goes thru some arguments from legislators: Doogan says the resources are commonly, not individually owned; Gara says we shouldnt give a divided to rich Alaskans (we could point out its optional to accept the rebate); lastly, he says some legislators dont see an end to giving out the rebate on an annual basis. He concludes with saying that Palins plan is better than any political alternative, and legislators should get over their fear of letting go of control of state resources.

Fagan: Fagan continues to write crap. This piece is about what he calls the list of all of the blunders of the administration and campaign. His list includes: Wasilla Chamber debate when the governor said shed favor Wasilla; demonizing the former Mat-Maid board and then replacing them all; a joint appearance by the governor and Tom Irwin on Fagans show when the governor said she was negotiating w producers and Tom said the state was not; the governor on the Pocarro show saying ACES creates an atmosphere of investment; the governor using the word competition to describe agia; the governor calls the denali project an 11 pg PowerPoint presentation; the governor accuse oil companies of warehousing our gas; the governor declares Pt Thompson is no longer needed to build a pipeline. He ended with saying the ultimate deception was crafting a carefully worded op-ed last week re: statehood book. He says he talked with the FL publishing company and they said they worked closely with the administration.

Im happy to work with Sharon, Frank, Tom, etc on tracking down what was actually said during these various appearances to correct his untruths point by point.

Halcro: Halcro pc is on rah rah policy making. To try and discredit the in-state plan he used a quote from Doogan from last week, "As I understand it, what's different between today and the day before there was a press conference is that there has been the announcement of a partnership that has yet to be formed, to ship gas that has yet to be discovered in what seems to be the wrong direction, in a pipeline that has yet to be built and details will follow.

Halcro chooses not to mention that Doogan went on to commend the governor for trying to find a solution to the energy crisis, and for supporting an in-state line where Akns get gas first.

He also tries to discredit the argument that the TC plan is an insurance policy that keeps the producers honest. He writes that Pat Galvin said if a future legislature adopts new tax rules or fiscal certainty to move a gas pipeline forward and Denali also moves forward it will trigger the treble damages clause and the sate would be forced to pay TC more than $100 million. Halcro calls it the Thelma and Louise insurance policy. We join hands with TC and it ensures we drive off the cliff.
http://www.adn.com/opinion/story/463269.html

I copied and pasted the entire article to Pat, Tom, and Marty to review, and copied Sharon.

Erickson: He's praising the governor for her energy rebate plan. He agrees the payments represents a distribution of Alaskas resource wealth, and then goes thru some arguments from legislators: Doogan says the resources are commonly, not individually owned; Gara says we shouldnt give a divided to rich Alaskans (we could point out its optional to accept the rebate); lastly, he says some legislators dont see an end to giving out the rebate on an annual basis. He concludes with saying that Palins plan is better than any political alternative, and legislators should get over their fear of letting go of control of state resources.

Fagan: Fagan continues to write crap. This piece is about what he calls the list of all of the blunders of the administration and campaign. His list includes: Wasilla Chamber debate when the governor said shed favor Wasilla; demonizing the former Mat-Maid board and then replacing them all; a joint appearance by the governor and Tom Irwin on Fagans show when the governor said she was negotiating w producers and Tom said the state was not; the governor on the Pocarro show saying ACES creates an atmosphere of investment; the governor using the word competition to describe agia; the governor calls the denali project an 11 pg PowerPoint presentation; the governor accuse oil companies of warehousing our gas; the governor declares Pt Thompson is no longer needed to build a pipeline. He ended with saying the ultimate deception was crafting a carefully worded op-ed last week re: statehood book. He says he talked with the FL publishing company and they said they worked closely with the administration.

Im happy to work with Sharon, Frank, Tom, etc on tracking down what was actually said during these various appearances to correct his untruths point by point.

Halcro: Halcro pc is on rah rah policy making. To try and discredit the in-state plan he used a quote from Doogan from last week, "As I understand it, what's different between today and the day before there was a press conference is that there has been the announcement of a partnership that has yet to be formed, to ship gas that has yet to be discovered in what seems to be the wrong direction, in a pipeline that has yet to be built and details will follow.

Halcro chooses not to mention that Doogan went on to commend the governor for trying to find a solution to the energy crisis, and for supporting an in-state line where Akns get gas first.

He also tries to discredit the argument that the TC plan is an insurance policy that keeps the producers honest. He writes that Pat Galvin said if a future legislature adopts new tax rules or fiscal certainty to move a gas pipeline forward and Denali also moves forward it will trigger the treble damages clause and the sate would be forced to pay TC more than $100 million. Halcro calls it the Thelma and Louise insurance policy. We join hands with TC and it ensures we drive off the cliff.
http://www.adn.com/opinion/story/463269.html

I copied and pasted the entire article to Pat, Tom, and Marty to review, and copied Sharon.

Are all state employees going to get the same offer to drive home State vehicles like DOT Maintenance is doing as a cost saving to the employee.

I see these (crew cabs, vans, 4x4's heavy duty trucks) everyday and on weekends to and from work, parked in driveways at night and over the weekends, WalMat, recreational areas like last week while dip netting at Chitina.. children passengers in the morning and evenings, pulling campers.....

I get called in at odd hours all the time to work, does this justify getting a State vehicle for myself too....take care of this, or I will find someone that will....thankyou Ben

MESSAGE:

Dear Governor Sarah Palin;

I am a 34 year resident of the Mat-Su Valley and have been aggressively following my dream of opening a community activity center for children and teens. I have been working on my business plan and discussing my business opportunities with the Mat-Su Small Business Development Center in Wasilla. I have sourced out several different ideas and activities for small children and teens. I have friends with children with special needs and would like to focus part of my business on catering to their needs with fun and interactive games and activities. Through discussions with family who have established businesses in the valley like my foster mom Dr. Natalie Beyeler they all think this type of center is needed to help our children have a positive place to go year round. I want to focus the center around interaction between parents and children.

Through a positive and friendly environment I plan on creating a center that will help kids stay safe and busy throughout the year. One of the programs is to help focus on school grades and the participation and interaction between young adults and the elderly, who are sometimes segregated from young children, are particularly important to another aspect of our mission - to facilitate community between generations. From experience working as a volunteer at the pioneer home, the older person who reads to young children feels needed and appreciated. The young child who sees teenagers perform music or drama sees possibilities for themselves. Our partnerships with local senior centers, pioneer home and schools will help establish relationships that simultaneously support families, young adults, and seniors.

I plan on giving any unsold items and nutritional food from the community center café to the local churches, charities and food banks or perhaps including a food bank in the center itself.

Another aspect I would like to see in our community center is to help the community out by raising money for the non-profit groups and our schools. I have lots of ideas and different programs that would help our children, like teaching our children how to recycle, have an after school tutor program. I am a single mother of two beautiful children one is 15yrs and my baby is 6 months old. I currently work on the slope as a plant operator for Bp at North Star Island; I have been up here for 8yrs. I love my job very much. But, my dream in life is to work with children and help single mothers in guiding their children and others in the right path. If it wasn't for people like my mom who cared and took me in and loved me like one of her own, who knows what could have happened to me. I would love to give back to the community and help with our children in the valley. By offering assistance and a sponsored shelter program.

If you could help me by guiding me in the right direction by discussing any opportunities and ideas by setting up a meeting. I would like to share my business plan and ideas with you and see if you might have any ideas on grants or sponsors that may give me a direction where to start. This would help in developing this dream. I would really appreciate it. Thank you for your time.

Kind Regards

Tina Wensel

MESSAGE:

Dear Gov. Palin,

In my letter below, I warn the Lt. Governor in his campaign to unseat Cong. Don Young to be on the look out for the establishment GOP types who will try to undermine his efforts by funding and campaigning for the incumbent.

While I have the utmost respect for you and your fellow Republicans, I think I must express my hope, for the good of Alaskans and the nation, that you use your influence to keep the establishment GOP out of the primary campaign and let the Republican voters decide who would lead them in Congress.

Thanks.

I just found out about your campaign to unseat Don Young, from the Club for Growth. Beating an entrenched incumbent can be done. We did it here in MD's District 1, where Andy Harris beat 9-term Congressman Wayne Gilchrest.

Now, I want to urge you to be wary of the establishment Republicans who will try to stop change from happening in Alaska and in Congress as a whole. Despite the fact some of them write books with such titles as "Real Change," they will come to your District and campaign for the status quo.

No matter how liberal and embarassing he is to conservative Republicans, they will come and stump for Don Young. I am posting this on my blog at Newt.org (http://newt.org/tabid/97/pid/238/Default.aspx), and I amd sending a copy to your GOP chairman and to Gov. Pallin. The message will be get behind Real Change in Alaska or get out of the way.

Stick to your conservative principles, eschew the politically correct lexicon of the liberal left, and show Alaskans, the toughest people on earth, that they don't have to be represented by a pork-barrel politician; that they can add the voice of a conservative statesman instead, one who will help lead the GOP back to its noble roots in limited government and a strong defense.

Show them what a real Republican can do to support reforms in National government for the good of all Americans, not just a few living on a remote island in Alaska.

I could go on and on. But you get the message. Conservatism can win when clearly articulated. By the way, John McCain has no coattails, in case you haven't noticed. It's one thing to support his campaign, but don't feel obligated to mimick his campaign. There is very little redeeming about the candidate other than he is not a Democrat.

Thanks for taking the time to read this and GOOD LUCK!!!

Dear Governor Palin,

To be certain you understand the intent of this note, I wish to begin by telling you I am one of your biggest fans. I read an article today in the ADN conerning the "foreign processors" issue. I ask that you be careful in this area as the article clearly indicates the issue directly effects the livelihood of your husband. It's sad that so many have betrayed the public trust so often that every action comes under a microscope; but, that is the current reality of public life. Perhaps you can defer judgement to some other officials to ensure there is no reason to question motives. The last thing I want to see is your antagonists get an issue with which they can create doubt.

Thanks for the great job...thanks for governing with integrity.

Sincerely,

Dear Governor Palin: June 13,

Thank you for your email. When we wrote the "Alaska? or Canada?" ad, we listed those known for their support of a Canadian gasline.

By including "The Corrupt Bastards Club" (whose members do in fact back a Canadian line) that list implied that others were corrupt. This was not intended. The ad has been corrected (see attached) and an apology sent to Marty and her team.

We remember well your Inaugural Address when you called on the people to hold you accountable. We believe that the legislature should be held to that same standard.

We strongly stand by the message of this ad in its final form. It would be a grave mistake to give a foreign country, however friendly, the power to decide when, if ever, a pipeline is built and who will enjoy the "maximum benefit" of this resource owned by all Alaskans.

Sincerely,

Malcolm Roberts, coordinator, Backbone III

I talked to Rhonda this morning. She had only gotten Walt's perspective on things. I talked to her about being positive and that we were disappointed that he did not want to consider the other position that he could have really excelled in. Anyway she seems ok with the conversation and was appreciative that I called her.

The papers this morning and last night just indicated that Walt thought it was wrong he was let go and that the voice of support came from the union…….The article I don't think was damaging at all and at least the reporter did his homework and found out there was a similar situation that happened at the Muni. So I think after a couple of days worth it will be over. Time to move on.

Hope you guys got some sleep last night.
